Do you ever play the blame game? Checking out my desperate need for a house cleaning SWAT team, a landscaper, and the downward direction of any disposable income stream, the guilt should fall on Donald McCaig and my daughter. Mr. McCaig for writing "Nop's Trials" and Kelly for finding a cute BC bitch named Sweet for me in the Thrifty Nickel five years ago.

Trainers, lessons, practice, clinics, trials, another dog, etc., another dog-the usual progression soon followed. My two older dogs, Sweet and Chip, are partnering me in pro/novice class and young Chili starting novice, so now my free time is spent swathed in fleece, whistling at my dogs through the blowing rain, and learning about humility at sheepdog trials. Thanks, guys!
